

The conference as a whole made me think about offering REAL experiences to the children.

The day made me ask myself whether I answer children's questions too quickly.

I think it is important that KS1 have the opportunity to have this experience as often real experiences get lost at year 1 and 2.

I have learned a lot today and will apply this in my work with children. The day made me think about children and the way they think.

THANK YOU.

Having the book to take away made a real difference. Now I know I'll continue with the work and be able to share it with others I work with.

Back in my workplace I will now try and use the outdoor environment more effectively.

The conference as a whole made me think about what it means to be a child- how I can make sure I give the right opportunities/experiences and it made me ask myself about the experiences I provide, how can I change them so that children have time to explore, question and lots more...

The conference as a whole made me think about making learning vivid and real.

Now I'm going to start from a REAL idea for the children with a REAL purpose.

I think I will apply what I have learned by listening to children more and considering the questions they ask in so many different ways. I'll start topics from what the children want to learn and I'll keep a question book.

What will stick in my memory is how children use their whole bodies to learn.

Linking this approach to other frameworks (including Birth to Three Matters, the Foundation Stage Curriculum Guidance, the National Curriculum, National Primary Strategy) will enrich children's learning, empower other teachers and change education for the better.

I think I will apply what I have learned by taking the lead from children.
